

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY

July 20, 2016

GNYCUC Recognizes Top Construction Projects

The Greater New York Construction User Council (GNYCUC) honored Patrick Burke, Assistant Vice President of Capital Project Management at Columbia University Medical Center during its 2016 Chairman's.

New York City's top construction projects of 2016 were also recognized at the event held at 1271 Avenue of the Americas.

The ceremony recognized Burke for his exceptional leadership and dedication to quality development throughout Columbia University.

With decades of extensive construction and design experience, Mr. Burke plays a key role in instrumenting the advancement of their facilities including the newly dedicated Roy and Diana Vagelos Education Center and Columbia University School of Nursing Building.

In addition, GNYCUC honored exceptional construction projects of 2016 that included:

- Commercial-New Renovation: 1221 Avenue of Americas
- Commercial-New Construction: 4WTC
- Cultural: Kings Theatre
- Public Space- Grace Farms

- Retail: Porcelanosa America Flagship
- Hotel: Baccarat Hotel
- Healthcare: Northwell Health Forest Hills Hospital Center
- Public Project: NYPD Police Academy
- Residential: 150 Charles Street
- Infrastructure: NYU Langone Medical Center

More than 150 owners as well as leading architects, engineers and contractors attended the event.

Marcelo Velez, Vice Chair of GNYCUC, noted, "The Chairman's Reception provides an opportunity for industry recognition across many project types. The GNYCUC's goal is to ensure that owners, institutions, builders and designers continue to focus on ambitious and creative construction projects that have made New York great."

